Bulgaria

Spirit of Burgas
August 13-15

ON the white sandy beaches of Burgas, against the backdrop of the Black Sea coast and with more than 100 acts on seven stages, this is the rising star of Eastern European festivals.

Soundtrack: The Prodigy, Serj Tankian, Apollo 440, DJ Shadow and Andy C.

Book: An early bird three-day pass, available until May 14, is £40. After that it costs around £55 or £65 on the door.

WizzAir has direct flights from Luton to Burgas airport and Monarch flies from Manchester. See spiritofburgas.com

GET your groove on and top up your tan at the same time – result! We've found the best festivals in sunnier climes this summer – and there's not a mudslide in sight...

Heineken Open'er Festival

Gdynia, July 1-4

OPEN'ER has been named the "cheapest major European festival" by a specialist website - beer is only £1.25 for half a litre, food is inexpensive and Ryanair have cheap flights to Gdansk.

If that's not reason enough to go, the location - on the Baltic Sea coast - and the music should clinch it.

Soundtrack: The line-up includes Ellie Goulding, Kasabian, Pearl Jam, Massive Attack, Grace Jones and Hot Chip.

Book: A four-day camping ticket is £85. See opener.pl/en (*For free Open'er Passes see competition, below)

Exit Festival

Petrovaradin Fortress, Novi Sad, July 8-11

LAUNCHED 11 years ago as a student protest against the communist regime, it still has an alternative vibe. Food and drink is cheap and you'll find every type of music from drum and bass to rock, electronic and thrash metal.

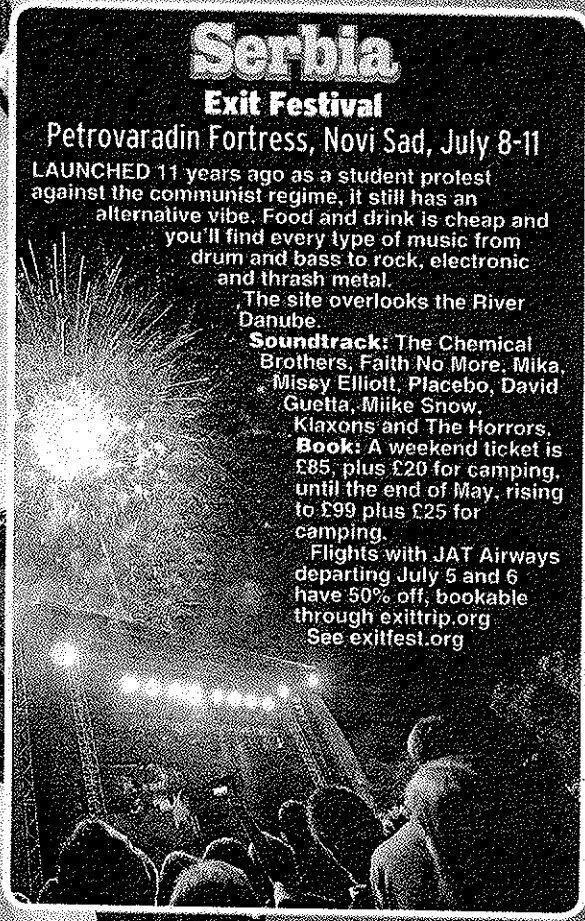

The site overlooks the River Danube

Soundtrack: The Chemical Brothers, Faith No More, Mika, Missy Elliott, Placebo, David Guetta, Miike Snow, Klaxons and The Horrors.

Book: A weekend ticket is £85, plus £20 for camping, until the end of May, rising to £99 plus £25 for camping.

Flights with JAT Airways departing July 5 and 6 have 50% off, bookable through exittrip.org. See exitfest.org
